Dear Advertiser,

The Columbia Choral Society is pleased to announce its 2022-2023 season. We cordially invite you to support the Columbia Choral Society by advertising in the Columbia Choral Society's fall and spring concert programs.

The Columbia Choral Society is an auditioned chorus and is the longest-continuously performing community chorus in the state. As we begin our 92nd year, we continue to strive for our mission of enriching and educating the community through the performance of great choral music. Support from advertisers like you is critical to fulfilling this mission.

We opened last season with a free concert titled How Can I Keep from Singing? This was our gift to the community to welcome our audience back from the pandemic hiatus. This was followed by a second fall performance featuring Requiem composed by Fauré. This past spring, we performed Sunrise Mass composed by Ola Gjeilo, a contemporary composer residing at the Juilliard School in New York City. For this fall's concert, we are preparing four selections composed by Brahms.

The concerts are held in the Columbia area and are advertised through social media and print media. Your ad will be placed in the hands of hundreds of audience members through the distribution of our fall and spring concert programs at these performances.
