Dear Friends of Columbia Choral Society,

Columbia Choral Society (CCS) extends a heartfelt invitation to join us in championing the arts and enriching lives in the central regions of South Carolina. Your sponsorship will not only elevate our performances, but your support will cascade to other musicians in the Columbia area. You will truly be helping to leave a legacy of goodwill and generosity within our community.

Celebrating over nine decades of musical excellence, the Columbia Choral Society is a beacon of choral artistry in the landscape of South Carolina. Under the direction of artistic director Dr. Elizabeth M. Mears, the choral group boasts a membership of over 80 auditioned vocalists and has become the foremost choral group in the region. Our mission is to stimulate and broaden community engagement in music through the performance of classical choral music.

Opportunities for meaningful community engagement are boundless. This fall we collaborated with Allen University and provided a percussion demonstration to elementary students. The fall concerts attracted over 300 eager listeners. In March, the Columbia Choral Society partnered alongside the SC Philharmonic to perform Mozart's Requiem.

By becoming a sponsor, you will be listed in our Piccolo Spoleto June 9th concert program as someone investing in exceptional artistry and the cultural fabric of our community. You will be helping to support South Carolina instrumentalists by enabling CCS to hire orchestra members. Come hear CCS perform Dan Forrest's Requiem for the Living at Circular Congregational Church, downtown Charleston, at 3:30 pm. This masterpiece, sung in the universal language of music, is centered on helping those who are navigating the complexities of loss.

With over 94 years of history, CCS has consistently delivered exceptional choral performances that resonate deeply with audiences across the Midlands, in Charleston, and beyond. Let the Columbia Choral Society be your partner in philanthropy, as together, we inspire, uplift, and transform lives through the power of music. To explore sponsorship opportunities, please contact us at your earliest convenience or utilize the enclosed sponsor form.

Warm regards,
