Dear Friends of Columbia Choral Society,

The Columbia Choral Society is celebrating its 94th year of enriching the lives of people in the Midlands through the performance of classical choral masterworks. The vocal group is an auditioned chorus and the longest continuously performing community chorus in the state. We cordially invite you to support the Columbia Choral Society by advertising in our concert programs for the 2023 / 2024 season. Support from community partners like you is critical to fulfilling this mission.

We completed our 93rd season this spring by performing Dan Forrest's Requiem for the Living on April 30th. We then performed Sunrise Mass composed by Ola Gjeilo in Columbia on May 21st and in Charleston on June 4th for Piccolo Spoleto.

Our Artistic Director Dr. Elizabeth M. Mears has been busy creating our upcoming concert schedule. The November 12 concert is titled "Leaving a Legacy" and will include works by Moses Hogan as well as "The Gospel Mass" by Robert Ray. The concert will be a collaboration with Allen University. Watch the website for details on a second performance. In the Spring, the Columbia Choral Society will perform "Requiem for the Living" by Dan Forest on May 19.

Our standard season concerts will be held in the Columbia area and are advertised through social media and print media. Your ad will be placed in the hands of hundreds of audience members through the distribution of our fall and spring concert programs at these performances.

Our ad prices for the upcoming season are:
